

Let The Games Begin

This is an amazing time when millions of Americans focus their attention on the other side of the planet. The opening of the Olympic Games brought unprecedented athletics and pageantry along with dreams of gold. It's unfortunate that along with the Sprit of competition, the games bring the opportunity for exploitation. This has been witnessed not only in the actions of extremists, but with leaders of the World.

During this auspicious period we'll hopefully show compassion to all of humanity, especially toward our adversaries. It was recently suggested to the Dalai Lama that sanctions be imposed against China to aid the plight of the Tibetan people. The Dalai replied that such action would harm many in China and only a peaceful resolution is acceptable. His answer was absolute. He followed by saying, "We should seek the Tibet's within us all." These are powerful words from a man who's been in exile for almost 50 years.

~namaste